

Can America Survive The Abortion Boom?

For more than 15 years, Dennis Howard has been a lone voice warning of the economic disaster inherent in the abortion boom. "If anything can bring the long secular bull cycle on Wall Street to an end," he wrote, "it is the huge hole abortion has created in our younger population."

In 1997, he published the special report: The Abortion Bomb: America's Demographic Disaster. In it he predicted: "I see little hope that we can avoid an eventual crash on Wall Street that will make the 1930's look like cashing in your cards after a bad game of Monopoly®."

His forecast proved correct: "I'd give it a 50% chance of happening by the year 2000, an 80% chance by the year 2010, and a 100% chance of happening by 2020."

Now that his forecasts have come to pass, Howard is concerned that the trillions of dollars politicians want to throw at the problem will only make matters worse. So he is carrying his Campaign for Life to radio talk shows across the country -- with more than a dozen recent appearances that have so far reached millions of listeners over some 1320 stations.

For the first time, the economic impact of abortion is a red-hot story. Abortion has already cost $35 trillion in lost GDP, and that number will grow to $350 trillion by 2050 unless we stop this war against the young. "The 100 million babies we have eliminated through aggressive population control," he says, "translate into millions of jobs that have simply disappeared."

Yet pro-abortion politicians are ready to compound the problem by passing new laws like the "Freedom of Choice Act" that would turn America into the abortion capital of the world. Combined with abortion on demand under a liberal health care plan, Howard warns that "abortions could increase by 300,000 to 500,000 a year, plus millions more overseas."

"This is not the path to prosperity," he says, "It is the path to national suicide."

Howard believes that we can stop this suicidal drive in its tracks only if Americans are willing to unite behind a campaign to build a new pro-life majority by changing hearts and minds. We have a whole new generation growing up whose entire future is at risk unless we act now.

He is ready to hit the talk show trail again, but he needs your help to do it. To keep this campaign going, he needs partners who are willing to give $25, $50, or $100 each to continue this campaign. Your gift will help to change hearts and minds and save lives. There is no better return on investment. One life saved today is worth $23 million in future GDP. And the spiritual return is infinite. Help Dennis carry the message by becoming a partner today.

Yes, I want to join my voice with yours in awakening America to the moral, spiritual, social and economic disaster represented by abortion. I, too, am concerned that the trillions of dollars the politicians want to throw at the financial crisis will only make matters worse by passing an impossible burden of debt onto our children and grandchildren. Let's not give up this fight!

I would like to be a Partner in your 2009 Campaign for Life. I agree that we need to build a new pro-life majority that will make bringing an end to abortion possible.

Check here for information about inviting Dennis Howard to speak to your church or community group on the moral, social and economic impact of abortion.

Here's how we are building a new pro-life majority.

This campaign begins with changing hearts and minds through cost effective communications. It is based on more than 50 years experience in journalism and creative marketing, backed by in-depth research into the terrible economic and social impact of abortion. Our success is based not on preaching, but on showing people the real consequences of abortion, not just on women and babies, but on our whole society. Abortion is killing America!

Based on our own internal research, we estimate that it costs us less than a penny to get a viewer, about a dime to get a reader, $1 to change a mind, $10 to educate a pro-life voter, and $25 to prevent a future abortion through preventive education and communications.

The return on investment is enormous. One baby's life saved today is worth $23 million in future GDP. But the spiritual return on investment is infinite. That's why we need your gift today.
