

“Read this book and laugh and cry and wonder as I did. . .”

So writes Winifred Fletcher in her touching foreword to Miss Teach: Handwritten with Love, the heartwarming recollections of a pioneer Rochester teacher in the field of education for children with disabilities. In it, Anne I. Remis shares the experiences, strength and hope she found in the course of her 29 year career during a time when education for children with disabilities was in its infancy.

Anne during her early days at Hartwell Clinic

“Anne Remis has given a detailed account of how one teacher resolved the many problems facing such an educator . . . The result is a valuable resource for today’s young teachers.”

Ms. Fletcher acknowledges the important role played by parents in this movement: “What gave the movement impetus were dedicated parents who had finally come together to found organizations that became powerful advocates for medical research and education in this new field.”

Here is a book that will be enjoyed by parents, teachers, and students who want to remember where we came from in order to understand and appreciate the enormous progress that has been made and the challenges that remain. ‘Miss Teach’ is powerful testimony to what one person can do to leave the world a better place for today’s children.
